

BUSINESS INTERRUPTION LOSSES - CAN YOU CLAIM?

Will your insurance policies pay out what you are due?

Insurers are resisting paying out for these claims despite the recent Supreme Court decision. However if there's any way you can successfully make a claim on your insurance to cover your business interruption losses, we will help you find it. You can count on our fixed price comprehensive insurance policy legal review service.

How can HCR help?

We will review your insurance policies and determine whether they contain the basis of a claim. If we believe they do, we can help quantify with your accountant the value and extent of your claim, negotiate on your behalf and bring pressure to bear to achieve the best settlement for you and your business.

What is the HCR insurance policy legal review service and how much does it cost?

The charging structure for our insurance policy legal review service puts you in control of your costs. With our expertise at the front of your claim you'll maximise your chances of a successful outcome.

Step 1

- A no obligation review of your insurance policy
- If you can make a claim we'll find out how £250 plus VAT per policy.

Step 2

- We will work with you to quantify the value and extent of your claim
- We will draft a detailed, robust letter of claim on your behalf

If you instruct us to undertake these steps for you we will agree our charges up front prior to proceeding.
